INDEX.

A.

Army, Administrative Reform in the, review of books concerning, 477—condition of the army under George I., 478—corruption under George III., 479—reforms effected by the two Pitts, 480—Duke of Wellington's views, 481—Sir R. Peel's policy, 482—lessons of the Crimean War, 482—influence of party government, 483—Mr. Gladstone and abolition of purchase, 484—Lord Wolseley and Lord Cardwell and short service system, 485, 492—Duke of Cambridge and professional conservatism, 486—division of responsibility in army control, 487—rearrangements after Crimean War, 490—Lord Grey on relative positions of Prime Minister and Commander-in-Chief, 491—Cardwell's army reorganisation, 491—co-operation of Admiralty and War Office, 494—retrogression, 495—Surveyor-General, 495—Lord Wolseley as Adjutant-General, and Sir R. Buller as Quartermaster-General, 496—Army Council, 496, 500—Lord Wolseley as Commander-in-Chief, 497—reconstitution scheme of 1904, 498—Sir H. Campbell-Bannerman on military policy, 500.

Arnold, Matthew, and Insularity, review of books concerning, 131—criticism of England of the sixties and seventies, 132—culture and travel, 133—unbending stiffness of national mind, 135—'Hellenism' as a cure, 136—French esprit and German Geist, 138—burlesque of 'middle-middle' class, 141—Oxford's influence over the middle class, 142—Goethe's opinion of Young England, 143—German origin of term 'Philistine,' 145—British fair play, 146—'Barbarians,' 147—indebtedness to Heine, 147—grand ideals, 149.

Avebury, Lord, his book on free trade reviewed, 249.

B.

Bardenhewer, Dr. O., his history of old Church literature reviewed, 362.

Baty, T., his 'International Law in South Africa' reviewed, 320.

Biddulph, General Sir R., his book on Lord Cardwell's administration reviewed, 477.

Boutmy, E., his 'English People' reviewed, 131.

Brassey, Lord, his book on the new fiscal policy reviewed, 249.

Braun, C., his 'Amerikanismus' reviewed, 362.

Byzantine Architecture, review of books concerning, 385—Greek colony at Byzantium, 388—Roman Catholic Cathedral at Westminster, 389—structural use of mosaic, 390—Santa Sophia, 391—domes, 392—mosaic as decoration, 393—arch principle and the idea of form, 394—use of gold and colours, 395—chiaroscuro, 396—Sicilian mosaic churches, 397—Norman and Arab influence, 398—Monreale Cathedral, 398—Capella Palatina, 399—Martorana chapel, Palermo, 400—Venice and Constantinople, 402—St. Mark's, 403—softness and colour, 405—Venetian and Spanish schools of art, 409.

XUM

C.

Cambridge Modern History, vol. ii., 'The Reformation,' reviewed, 152.

Chamberlain, Mr., his proposals, review of speech and report concerning, 449—protection of manufactures, 449—free imports as affecting employment of labour, 450—transitions of industry, 452—conditions of labour, 452—protection of infant industries, 454—Tariff Commission on 'dumping,' 456—temporary or permanent high duties, 457—10 per cent. duties, 458—destructive 'dumping,' 459—duties for revenue, 460—practical difficulties of protective legislation, 462—preferential tariffs and British agriculture, 463—landlords and farmers, 465—prices of land, 466—labourers' wages, 466—peasant proprietors, 467—agricultural import duties, 468—bounties, 470—colonial concessions to our trade, 473—Imperial unity, 474—an Austrian economist's opinion, 476.

Champeaux, G. de, his book on the Sahara reviewed, 1.

Corbett, J. S., his 'England in the Mediterranean' reviewed, 75.

D.

Darcy, J., his 'Cent Années de Rivalité Coloniale—L'Afrique' reviewed, 1.

Davis, Sir John, review of books concerning, 206—early years, 208—poems, 209—royal favour, 209—Attorney-General for Ireland and First Serjeant-at-law in England, 210—M.P. for Corfe Castle and for Newcastle-under-Lyne, 210—made Chief Justice of England on the eve of his death, 210—his wife, Lady Eleanor Audley, 211—Davis and the plantation of Ulster, 212—Irish lawlessness, 213—shiring of Ulster, 215—Tyrone's opposition to English rule, 219—reform of Irish Parliament, 220—Roman Catholic obstruction, 223—two Speakers elected, 223—Davis's oration as Speaker, 224—anti-English Opposition, 226—his administrative capacity, 227.

Denifle, H. S., his book on Luther reviewed, 362.

Diehl, C., his book on Byzantine Art reviewed, 385.

E.

England in the Mediterranean, review of books concerning, 100—English pirate and the corsairs of Tunis, 101—first English fleet in Mediterranean, 102—Mansell's failure at Algiers and Blake's success at Tunis, 102—Spanish suspicions of the English, 103—policy of King James, 104—English attempt on Cadiz and proposal to seize Gibraltar, 106—Richelieu, 107—Mazarin, 108—Cromwell's policy, 109—expedition against Tunis and Tripoli corsairs, 110—English acquisition of Tangier, 111—Dutch jealousy, 117—French attempt to establish a port in Morocco, 119—struggle with the Dutch for the Straits of Gibraltar, 120—evacuation of Tangier under Charles II., 123—William III. sends Russell to the Mediterranean, 125—seizure of Gibraltar and Minorca, 128—Rooke's victory at Malaga, 129.

F.

Faguet, E., his 'Le Libéralisme' reviewed, 265.
Fortescue, Hon. J. W., his 'History of the British Army' reviewed, 477.
Fouck, L., his 'Katholischen Evangelienforschung' reviewed, 362.
France, A., his 'Le Parti Noir' reviewed, 265.
France and the Vatican, review of books concerning, 265—election of Pius X., 267—personality of Leo XIII., 268—Cardinal Merry del Val, 269—Catholicism and society in France, 270—Pope and politics, 271—Associations Law of 1901, 272—suppression of teaching orders, 273—clerical terrorism, 274—expulsion of Carthusians, 275—the Concordat, 276, 281—Free Church in a Free State, 277—case for a National Church, 280—increase in religious associations, 282—ecclesiastical encroachments, 283—Combes Ministry, 285—Bishops of Dijon and Laval summoned to Rome, 286—infallibility, 289—results of denunciation of the Concordat, 289—actual text of the Concordat, 294.
France in Africa, review of books concerning, 1—French colonisation a hundred and fifty years ago, 3—difference between French and English methods, 6—Algiers under French rule, 7—story of the acquisition of Algeria, 9—immigration restricted, 11—awakening of colonial enterprise since 1872, 13—explorers, 13—annexation of Tunis, 14—French Sudan, Congo, and Lake Tchad, 15—delimitation of frontiers, 15—Monteil and Blanchet in the Sahara, 16—Foureau among the Touaregs, 16—control of Morocco, 19—irrigation of the Sahara, 21—artesian wells, 22—secret water supply of the desert, 24—hopes for the future, 26.

G.

Garinet, J., his history of magic in France reviewed, 75.
Giffen, Sir R., his 'Economic Inquiries' reviewed, 249.
Grosart, A. B., his 'Works of Sir J. Davies' reviewed, 206.

H.

Haldane, R. B., his 'Pathway to Reality' reviewed, 182.
Hall, W. E., his 'International Law' reviewed, 320.
Hervieu, P., his 'Le Dédale' reviewed, 297.
Houtin, A., his book on Henri Bernier reviewed, 265.

XUM

I.

Innes, A. T., his 'Law of Creeds in Scotland' reviewed, 429.

L.

Lawrence, T. J., his 'War and Neutrality in the Far East' reviewed, 320.

Leroy-Beaulieu, P. P., his book on Algeria and Tunis reviewed, 1.

Lethaby, W. R., and H. Swainson, their book on the Church of St. Sophia reviewed, 385.

Lévi, E., his book on magic reviewed, 75.

Life in the Universe, review of Dr. Wallace's book concerning, 59—'Plurality of Worlds,' 59—unfitness of most of the planets for higher organic life, 62—Mars as a habitable globe, 62—resemblances and differences between Mars and the Earth, 63—relations of Moon and Earth, 64—gaseous envelopes of planets, 64—conditions necessary to organic life, 65—air and water, 66—stability in emission of light and heat, 67—double stars, 67—tidal friction, 68—do all stars have planets? 68—special advantages of our planet, 69—'Man's Place in the Universe,' 70—our position in the sidereal universe, 71—Milky Way, 72—man as the culmination of conscious organic life, 73—is our own the only inhabited planet? 73.

Liquor Laws, The, and the Licensing Bill, review of literature concerning, 228—number of licences in England and Wales, 228—ancient legislation in control of ale-houses, 229—Act of Edward VI. establishing licensing system, 230—beerhouses, 230—Act of 1902, 231, 238—tied-houses, 231—compensation for non-renewal, 232, 241—private breweries converted into limited companies, 233—money value of licences, 234—alleged legal right to renewal, 235—Farnham case, 236—powers of justices, 237—refusals to renew licences, 239—licence insurance, 240—claims of trade organisations, 242—Mr. Balfour's method of compensation, 244—defects of the present Bill, 245—public-house trusts, 247—forcing the measure through the House of Commons, 248.

M.

Magic, The History of, during the Christian Era, review of books concerning, 75—definition of la haute magie, 76—satanistic cults, 77—mediæval witchcraft, 78—magic of primitive ages, 78—Babylonian, Chaldean, and Egyptian astrologers, 79—Greece and Rome, 80—first era of Christian Church, 81—Mr. Lecky's account of periods of witchcraft, 81—Michelet's 'Sorcière,' 82—Gilles de Rais, 84—Mme. de Brinvilliers, 85—astrology and alchemy patronised by popes and kings, 86—higher alchemy, 87—elixir of life and mystic stone, 88—great men accused of magic, 88—Mr. Waite's biographies of alchemists, 89—Nicholas Flamel, 90—hermetic philosophers, 91—Church ritual of exorcism, 92—Eliphas Lévi on dogma and ritual of la haute magie, 93—astral light, 94—liturgies of ceremonial magic, 95, 98—symbolism, 96—sidereal and ghost bodies, 97—declining sense of the miraculous, 99.

Mahaffy, J. P., his book on Trinity College, Dublin, reviewed, 206.

Maurice, Sir J. F., his 'Diary of Sir John Moore' reviewed, 29.

Maury, A., his book on magic reviewed, 75.

Mérimée, P., review of his novels, 411—centenary of his birth, 411—his parents, 412—Henri Beyle (Stendhal), 414—Sainte-Beuve's anecdote of Prosper's childhood, 416—views of life, 418—'Une Correspondance Inédite,' 419—'Lettres à une Inconnue,' 419, 427—'Carmen,' 420—tragic simplicity of his characters, 422—'Colomba,' 423—Corsican revenge, 423—historical and dramatic works, 425—pseudo-translations, 425—affairs of the heart, 426.

Michelet, J., his 'La Sorcière' reviewed, 75.

Moore, Sir John, review of the Diary of, 29—disagreement with Sir Gilbert Elliot in Corsica, 34—relations with Paoli and Corsican opposition party, 35—attack on Lord Hood, 36—Nelson's opinion, 38—Hood's evacuation of Toulon, 38—capture of Bastia and Calvi, 44—Sir Ralph Abercromby and conquest of St. Lucia, 46—expedition to Ferrol, 49—excessive caution, 52—lands at Mondego Bay, 53—command in Spain, 55—evades Napoleon, 56—death at battle of Corunna, 57.

N.

Naudet, Abbé, his 'Why Catholics have lost the Battle' reviewed, 265.

Noblemaire, G., his 'Concordat ou Séparation' reviewed, 265.

O.

Orr, R. L., his 'Free Church of Scotland Appeals' reviewed, 429.

P.

Parker, G., and C. G. Bryan, their 'Old Quebec' reviewed, 1.

Paul, H. W., his 'Matthew Arnold' reviewed, 131.

Plays, Some recent French and English, review of, 297—'thesis plays,' 299—Hervieu's 'Dédale,' 300—Brieux's 'Maternité,' 303 Jullien's 'L'Oasis,' 304—Anatole France's 'Le Mannequin d'Osier,' 306—O. Mirabeau's 'Les Affaires sont les Affaires,' 307—Marcel Prévost's 'La Plus Faible,' 308—Donnay's 'Le Retour de Jérusalem,' 309—Coolus, Capus and Arène, 310—depression in English drama, 311—Barrie's 'Admirable Crichton,' 312—Bernard Shaw, 313—'Candida,' 314—'Man and Superman,' 315 Mrs. Lyttelton's 'Warp and Woof,' 316—Mr. Pinero, 317—'Letty,' 318—Mr. Jones's 'Joseph Entangled,' 319—Mr. Hubert Davies, 319.

Political Situation, The, review of speeches concerning, 502—Mr. Chamberlain's forecast, 502—changes in Parliament since last General Election, 504—Mr. Balfour and the Cabinet, 504—Boer

XUM

War and election contests, 504—reasons for a dissolution, 505—party prospects, 506—Home Rule and Protection, 506—Lord Rosebery on condition of parties, 507—Mr. Chamberlain's fiscal policy, 508—Free Traders and the Cabinet, 509—retaliation, 510—food taxes, 511—Mr. Balfour's policy of silence, 512—Tariff Reformers and bye-elections, 514—Prime Minister's speech at Edinburgh, 515—conference between Mother Country and Colonies, 516—Mr. Chamberlain at Luton, 517—duty of Unionist Free Traders, 519.

Prize Law, Some Problems of, review of books concerning, 320—Lord Stowell's decisions, 320—Dr. Lushington, Crimean War, 323—contraband, 324—West African Conference in 1884, 326—conditional contraband, 326—destruction of neutral vessels, 327—limitation of contraband to munitions of war, 327—destination of alleged contraband, 328—trade between a belligerent and its colonies, 329—American civil war, 329—South African war, 330—British Admiralty Manual, 330—case of the 'Bundesrath,' 330—Russo-Japanese war, 331—overhauling neutral vessels, 332—mail steamers, 332—ineffective blockade, 334—privateering and use of swift merchant ships in war, 335.

Protection, The Return to, review of books concerning, 249—Mr. Balfour's attitude of aloofness towards the fiscal question, 249—Mr. Chamberlain's policy as a test question for Unionist candidates, 250—educating a party, 252—tariff reform and public opinion, 254—Mr. Arnold-Forster on taxation of wheat, 254—Sir R. Giffen, 255—Mr. Chamberlain's case, 256—Lord Brassey, 258—Dr. Smart, 256—Tariff Commission, 260—Lord Avebury on Protectionist arguments, 260.

R.

Reality, The Pathway to, review of the Gifford lectures upon, 182—self-consciousness apart from brain-cells, 182—'I' as a universal term, 183—teaching of Hegel, 184—one mind, one Single Subject, not a plurality of minds or of individuals, 184—love, the highest relation of spirit to spirit, 185—yearning for immortality, 186—Self as the final and ultimate reality, 186—time and space and evolution, 187—Self and the not-self, 188—otherness, 118—empirical ego, 189—aspects and degrees of reality, 191—death and Ultimate Reality, 192—finite mind and Absolute Mind, 193—Plato's cave dwellers and the meaning of shadows, 193—Kant and science and art, 195—Schopenhauer and Hegel, 196—error and sin, 197—'our own separate minds,' 200—self-consciousness, 200—relationship of the finite to the Infinite, 203—Mill's psychological theories, 203—Lord Kelvin on a directive power, 205.

Reformation, The, review of vol. ii. of 'The Cambridge Modern History,' 152—from accession of Henry VIII. to abdication of Charles V., 152—popes of the period, 153—Charles V., 155—limitations of power of German emperor, 157—prohibition of private war, 158—permanent imperial council 58—Luther and the new movement, 160—universities of Erfurt and Wittenburg, 160—Luther's defiance of Rome, 161—translation of the Bible into German, 162—conversion of princes and their subjects, 163—Knights' War, 163—Peasants' War, 164—policy of Charles V., 165—League of Schmalkalde, 166—Council of Trent, 167, 176—Peace of Augsburg, 168—Swiss Calvinism and French Protestantism, 169—Italy, 171—Spain and Portugal, 173—Counter-Reformation, 175—the Church and the Copernican theory, 177—subjection of the will, 178—right to inquire, 178—science and dogma, 179—Catholic reaction, 180—treasure of piety, 180.

Roman Catholicism in Germany, The Intellectual Condition of, review of books concerning, 362—party of the Centre in the Reichstag, 362—clerical government in Bavaria, 363—domination of Catholic party over intellectual life, 365—religious strife in Germany, 365—Leibniz and Lessing, 366—Ranke, 367—Catholic faculties of theology, 367—Catholic men of science, 368—universities, 369—Ultramontane reaction, 370—schools for candidates for the priesthood, 371—neglect of higher education among Catholic laity, 372—sons of aristocracy, 372—alliance with Social Democrats, 373—Döllinger, 374—Catholic Congress at Ratisbon, 375—Catholic laymen and intellectual progress, 375—Harnack, Loisy, Denifle, 378—Mr. H. S. Chamberlain, 380.

Russell, Dr. C. W., and J. P. Prendergast, their 'Calendar of State Papers relating to Ireland' reviewed, 206.

Russell, G. W. E., his 'Matthew Arnold' reviewed, 131.

S.

Saccardo, P., his book on mosaics at St. Mark's, Venice, reviewed, 385.

Saintyes, P., his 'Intellectual Reform of the Clergy' reviewed, 265.

Schultz, R. W., and S. H. Barnsley, their 'Byzantine Architecture in Greece' reviewed, 385.

Scottish Churches and the Law of Property, review of books concerning, 429—dispute between Free Church and United Presbyterian Church, 429—ownership of property, 430—secession in 1843, 431—standard of doctrine and Church government, 431—question before House of Lords, 433—orthodoxy and innovation, 434—appeal to Cæsar, 435—Schiller on Church endowments, 436—powers of General Assembly, 436—Establishment principle, 437, 440—Confession of Faith, 437—property held in trust for Free Church purposes, 438—forecast of results of union of Free and United Presbyterian Churches, 440—decision of House of Lords, 440—relations of Churches to the State and to their members, 441—Bishop Gore upon liberty of relaxation of Church standards and practices, 442—freedom of Free and State Churches compared, 444—position of disestablished Church of Ireland, 445—State control and the dream of independence, 447.

Shaw, B., his 'Man and Superman' reviewed, 297.

Smart, W., his 'Return to Protection' reviewed, 249.

T.

Townshend, Dorothea, her 'Life and Letters of the Great Earl of Cork' reviewed, 206.

V.

Venetian Republic, The Commercial and Fiscal Policy of the, review of literature concerning, 338—Capello's treatise, 340—emporium city, 341—outbidding and underselling competitors, 342—command of trade route, 343—theory of the ruling city, 343—salt monopoly, 345—protection of industries, 345—guilds, 345—high quality of goods for export, 346—mercantile marine, 347—citizens and trade rights, 348—protective tariff, 349—commercial position under Doge Mocenigo, 350—changes in trade route, 351—English and Dutch competition, 351—new trade route by the Cape, 351—neglect of navigation, 353—free trade ideas, 354—free transit refused to foreign merchants, 357—English negotiations, 357—decline of industries and commerce, 360.

W.

Waite, A. E., his books on magic reviewed, 75.
Wallace, Dr. A. R., his 'Man's Place in the Universe' reviewed, 59.
Weiss, A. M., his 'Die religiöse Gefahr' reviewed, 362.
Wolseley, Viscount, his 'Story of a Soldier's Life' reviewed, 477.

END OF VOL. CC.

PRINTED BY
SPOTTISWOODE AND CO. LTD., NEW-STREET SQUARE
LONDON

XUM